BOMB IS FOUND NEAR EL PASO TEXAS

Block Away From Spot Where Taft and Diaz Are To Meet October 16

[Associated Dallas Telegram]

El Paso, Tex., Sept. 23. — Juarez, just across the border in Mexico, was greatly agitated by the finding of a bomb in a partly completed dwelling. The police were put on the case and 12 workmen were arrested. They will be given their hearing today.

It was first reported that the bomb was found in the rear of the customs house, where President Diaz and President Taft are to meet Oct. 16, but this was later denied by the authorities.

The residence of Camillot Arguelles, where the bomb was found, is located a block from the customs house where the presidents will meet. A visit by President Diaz to Don Arguelles, who is a close personal friend of Diaz, was thought probable. Mexican Consul A. V. Lomeli of El Paso admits that a stick of dynamite was found, but attaches no significance to it.

TO CONTINUE POLICIES

President Praises Work of Predecessor in Colorado Speech.

Pueblo, Colo., Sept. 23.—During his brief stay in this city President Taft stated that he had decided to deliver his conservation speech in Spokane, September 28. It was at Spokane that the controversy between Mr. Ballinger and Chief Forester Pinchot arose, and Mr. Taft regards it as the best place to discuss the issue.

During the course of his address at Colorado Springs, President Taft said: "We are entering upon an era of prosperity that I hope will be exceptional, even in the history of our prosperity, but in doing so we must be careful not to forget the obligation there is upon us to adopt such legislative measures in state and nation as shall prevent a recurrence of the abuses which were brought so plainly to the mind of the people by my predecessor, Theodore Roosevelt."

Taking Things Easy.

"It is easy when you are comfortable and when the income is coming in to think that everything is all right, but it is just about that time when the sappers and miners begin their work upon the foundations of society with reference to the abuses to which I have referred. And this administration is pledged with the aid of the people to put upon the statute books such additional legislation as shall clinch the advance in the standards of business and in the management of railroads and industrial corporations which were set up by my predecessor in his talks to the people and in his messages to congress."

"Now I think we have made great advance under his influence, but we must not stop. He took up the question of conservation of our resources, including the reclamation of land, the preservation of forests, the deepening of waterways, and pledged all his efforts in the direction of a scientific solution of these questions. Such a policy can not be brought to a culmination in one administration or two or three. All that each one can say while he is responsible is that his best efforts will be devoted to carrying out these policies, not only to devoting the government's attention, but also in encouraging the use of private capital and private effort in the same direction."

Judge Who Leads New York Race For Mayoralty

Of all the men mentioned as possibilities for mayor of New York at the coming election Judge William G. Gaynor comes in for the most attention. Judge Gaynor's recent announcement of his candidacy accompanied by the statement that if elected he would not be elected to by any faction, attracted many independent voters to his cause. Before either of the party conventions assembled Judge Gaynor will have received the endorsement of several independent organizations, chief among which is the body known as the Municipal Democracy. The Judge is a Democrat, but has attracted public attention for years through his attitude of independence of political machines.

Rev. Hagans Dies Suddenly In Indiana

Was Born and Reared in Coshocton County And Death Causes Shock to Many Relatives and Friends Here.

A telephone message was received Thursday morning by David Hagans, of Walhonding, stating that his brother, Rev. C. M. Hagans, had died from hemorrhage of the stomach at Lebanon, Ind., where he went about the first of September to accept a pastorate in the Christian church at that place.

Rev. Hagans was very well known in Coshocton county having been born and reared at New Castle and spent most of his life in this county. For five years he was pastor of the Christian church at Willow Brook. He was 43 years of age. He leaves a wife but no children. His father and the following brothers and sisters at Walhonding also survive: David Hagans, Mrs. Frank Hefflinger and Mrs. Louis Fry. Another brother Rev. John Hagans, is in the northwestern part of Ohio, and another, Uriah Hagans, is a blind singer.

Rev. Hagans had not been sick long. The first message conveying the information that he was critically ill was followed in a few minutes by a second message stating that he was dead. Rev. Hagans was an exemplary Christian man and a close follower of the bible's teachings. He spent his life trying to uplift humanity and spread the gospel. He was a close friend of John L. Shaw, of South Second-st. Rev. Hagans was one of the members of the building committee appointed by the conference to superintend the building of the Christian church in Coshocton. Mr. and Mrs. Shaw and some of the relatives in this county will attend the funeral at Lebanon.

MILLIONS LOST IN HURRICANE ON GULF

Forty-Six Known To Be Dead And Possibly Fifty More—Railroads Washed

[Associated Dallas Telegram]

New Orleans, Sept. 23.—New Orleans and the neighboring territory is gradually recovering from the effects of the hurricane which swept over the gulf states.

It is known positively that at least 46 lives were lost and 50 others are reported to have perished in lower Terre Bonne parish, but as yet this report has not been confirmed by definite figures.

The property loss is far heavier than was first believed, and instead of running into the hundreds of thousands will extend well into the millions by the time the final details are tallied. Miles of territory have been laid waste and crops have been practically ruined.

New Orleans is still sadly crippled in the way of railroad facilities and telephone and telegraph communication with the outside world. For several days the city's only communication was over an improvised long-distance telephone circuit. Both the Illinois Central and the Louisville & Nashville roads have suffered heavy losses, many miles of tracks having been washed away. Trains are being detoured. It will be several weeks before the Louisville & Nashville will be running trains over its own tracks.

It is the territory surrounding New Orleans, especially lower Terre Bonne parish, which now commands the attention of relief parties which left here, and from where the least bit of news is seized upon by the anxious people who have relatives or friends in the storm-stricken area.

Relatives Are Anxious. The death list in the lower portion of Terre Bonne parish increased as details were hourly received, until it numbers 29. Fishermen are heavy sufferers. Shipping of all kinds in the bayou inlets was totally destroyed. Store houses, sugar mills and dwellings of every character at Houma and other villages suffered heavily, and scarcely a structure was untouched by the hurricane.

The long railroad bridge at Bay St. Louis is a complete wreck, and it will be weeks before it is repaired. When the storm struck this bridge George Doherty, a Western Union lineman working out of New Orleans, was attempting to repair the wires so that communication could be re-established. "I was thrown flat on the bridge and only saved myself by locking my arms around one of the ties," said Doherty in describing his experiences on his arrival here. "There were three negroes in my gang and they finally reached me. By that time the waves were tearing up the bridge, and we lashed a number of ties together with our wire, launching just as the section of the bridge on which we were standing was swept away. The waves were running at least 50 feet high. The bridge went down and we were washed around in the bay until we were picked up by a fishing schooner."

COSHOCTON IS WORKED INTO THEATRICAL TALE

In October number of the Green Book the great theatrical magazine there is a story in which the name of Coshocton is mentioned and the story enthused many lovers of this fair city. The story was written by James Finnigan a news paper man and is supposed to have been picked up from the conversation heard in front of a vaudeville booking agency in New York City. The story shows the character and manner of speech of the stage folk and their trend of conversation. The name of this city enters in the story at about the middle when one of the characters asks another how her act is "going" the girl to whom the question is addressed says "We killed 'em at Coshocton and all along that circuit. The managers all told us that we could back for $250 any time."

Coshocton after all isn't entirely off the map Even the New York newspaper man Finnigan recognized a good thing when he heard it.

Will Receive Bids.

The county commissioners have posted notices that bids will be received until 10 o'clock a. m. Oct. 6, for the protection of the bank of the Walhonding river in Tuscarawas tp. The washout near the city wells will be repaired.

Forney Crawford states to The Age that he wishes to reiterate his former statement concerning the refusal of a West Lafayette hotel, and that he is positive of the exact conversation that took place. He says he went in as far as the kitchen door and told the landlady that he wanted dinner for five. She then asked him, he says, if they were wet or dry, to which he says he replied that as he was the defendant in the case he supposed he was wet. "Then she said," says Crawford, "that Judge Donley had been there all night and had said more of his crowd were coming that day, and that he did not want the two crowds mixed. She said I can't accommodate you because I run a decent house."

NEW CHARGES FILED AGAINST THREE MEN BEFORE JUDGE NICHOLAS

Garry Wills, William Crawford and Richard Clark Are Each Placed Under $200.00 Bond—Trials not Set.

Garry Wills, William Crawford and Richard Clark, were arrested by the sheriff Thursday morning on an affidavit sworn before Judge Nicholas in common pleas court and signed by Detective Grant, charging them with selling intoxicating liquors, whiskey in each case, to the detective on Aug. 1, 9 and 10. The cases are practically the same as are being tried at West Lafayette, differing only in one particular and that is the date. The West Lafayette cases charge Wills with selling to the detective on the 19th and the other two men on the 20th while the new cases say that Wills sold on the 20th and Crawford and Clark on the 20th. This makes the cases entirely new ones but at the same time they are old. The object of the present cases is not fully understood. When brought before Judge Nicholas Thursday morning the men were released under bond of $200 each. The date of the trial is not yet set.

Will Try To Have Law Changed For The Blind

F. W. St. John, who is afflicted with blindness but is nevertheless one of Coshocton's busy citizens, is interesting himself in a proposed change of the state laws in regard to the blind institutions. As the law now stands a blind person is admitted for one year to learn some trade, and is limited to one year. "This law was made when the only vocation open to the blind man was that of broom making," remarked Mr. St. John, "which can easily be learned in one year. But now various vocations are opening to the blind and it takes more than one year to make the sightless man an adept at it and sufficiently proficient to earn his own living. Take for instance the trade of basket weaving; it is intricate and difficult and takes at the very least two years hard study to learn."

Mr. St. John intends taking the matter up with Representative Schott and ask him to introduce a bill in the coming legislature to amend the laws to fit such a case. He has already conferred with John C. Fisher, who is a member of the board of trustees of the blind school at Columbus.

BRYAN ELECTED IN COLORADO

Western Mining Camp Operator Gave the Boys the News They Wanted

A funny incident happened on the night of the national election of 1896 in a little camp tucked away in the mountains of southwestern Colorado, where the only means of quick communication with the world were a single more uncertain telegraph wire and a single more uncertain telegraph operator. Naturally only the merest scraps of election news reached the camp, but before the certain news of McKinley's election could have been got the uncertain operator had fallen a victim to his favorite vice and, further, had fallen beneath the table.

The only other person who knew anything about telegraphy was "Shorty," the local wit and humorist, who volunteered to write out the election returns as they clicked off from the telegraph instrument. Political sentiment was as free as air. News of his election was not only sought, but demanded, for the average American miner is as sanguine concerning the uncertainties of politics as he is concerning the uncertainties of mining. The volunteer telegrapher was noted for an obliging disposition. He was the "gentle" of the camp.

The "boys" had placed stores of giant powder at various points. They had cleaned and oiled their six shooters and refilled their cartridge belts. Bonfires were ready to be lighted on the hillsides, and natural enthusiasm had been stimulated at the Metropole, the Cosmothopolis, the Fashion, the Trocadero and less pretentiously named cases in the desert of mining camp existence—in fact, every preliminary to the grandest celebration the San Juan country ever had known.

Shorty was not the man to neglect an opportunity like that. The first bulletin he handed to the waiting crowd stated that New York and Indiana were in doubt and it looked like a close election, with the chances favoring Bryan. That whetted the crowd's keen appetite for returns to razor edge. The second bulletin sent their spirits up with a leap. "Bryan has carried Kansas," and the Democrats are claiming Iowa."

"Whoopie!" from the crowd. Shorty bent his ear to the clicking sounder and inscribed "Bulletin No. 2—Indiana joins the Bryan column with 50,000 majority. Indiana certain. New York very close."

When the deafening chorus had died down a young member of the party asked the leader, "Hain't we better begin to set off the giant?"

Before the leader could answer Shorty reproved him by word and look. "Don't go off half cocked," he said. "It's always best to wait until you are sure. You can't be too conservative in a case like this."

After a long pause, in which the crowd displayed much impatience, the imperturbable and conservative Shorty transcribed Bulletin No. 4, and before passing it out he said:

"Now, boys, don't do anything rash. Wait for the actual result."

Bulletin No. 4 read, "Senator Jones claims Ohio and Pennsylvania for Bryan."

Under ordinary circumstances a doubt might have been expressed concerning the probability of such a statesman reversing their political records, but the crowd was composed of an impetuous and glibly credulous set of men, and they were beginning to get the "hot" remark Shorty when the election closed, and he began to write Bulletin No. 5 as follows:

"New York gives Bryan 100,000 plurality; Indiana, 50,000. Returns from Wisconsin and Minnesota indicate large Democratic gains."

The crowd had only the first sentence. Shooting, cheering, yelling, screaming, it broke for the street.

"Hold on!" called Shorty. "Here's another."

Bulletin No. 6, "Gany concedes Pennsylvania to Bryan."

Another fragment broke from the crowd and ran down the street shouting the news. The new operator's pencil was traveling rapidly over the paper, while his friends and fellow citizens crowded closely upon him and read as he wrote Bulletin No. 7, "Mark Hanna has locked up Republican headquarters and gone home."

The roar of the crowd was drowned by the roar of exploding giant powder. Buildings shook, windows rattled, accompanied by the crash of broken glass. The celebration was on, and Shorty McIntyre was alone.

The celebration lasted for two days. The morning after election the regular operator had recovered sufficiently to transcribe messages announcing McKinley's victory. Those who were

ENTIRE FAMILY IS KILLED BY ROBBERS

Bodies of Five Cremated to Conceal Crime.

Bluesfield, W. Va., Sept. 23.—Six members of one family were murdered and the bodies of five cremated in their home at Hurley, Buchanan county, Va. Robbery was the motive, as the owner of the house, an aged woman known as "Aunt Betty" Justis, was generally supposed to keep a large sum of money about the place.

Mrs. Justis, her son-in-law, George Meadows, his wife and their three children were the victims. Meadows' body, badly mutilated, was found lying in the yard of his destroyed home. Two bullet holes through the body and a wound in the neck gave the discoverers their first evidence of the extent of the tragedy.

Another daughter of Mrs. Justis told the police that her mother had a large sum of money buried under the sill of the house, and they succeeded in digging up $500 in gold and silver. The murderers are supposed to have secured the $500 which "Aunt Betty" always carried on her person.

THE PRINCESS VIRGINIA

BY C. N. AND A. M. WILLIAMSON

Authors of "The Lightning Conductor", "Rosemary in Search of a Father," Etc.
COPYRIGHT, 1907, BY MCGILVER, PHILLIPS & CO.

Through the gate of dreams lies the fair land of romance into which you would travel, finding welcome relief from the daily grind. Now you are invited to accompany the Princess Virginia, who determines that the royal personage who would honor her with his hand must fall in love with her and woo her as any other man would a woman. Therefore she travels incognito in his realm, meeting adventures strange and full of excitement. You will learn with pardonable pride that the American blood in her veins gives her an independence unheard of in the presence of kings, but most of all you will want to know how she succeeds in her bold undertaking. That you will enjoy every minute of the reading is assured by the verdict of thousands who declare "The Princess Virginia" to be a most delightful story.

CHAPTER ONE

"O," said the princess, "no, I'm dazed if I do."

"My darling child," exclaimed the grand duchess, "you're impossible. If any one should hear you!"

"It's he who's impossible," the princess amended. "I'm just trying to show you."

"Or to shock me. You are so like your grandmother."

"That's the best compliment any one can give me, which is lucky, as it's given so often," laughed the princess. "Dear, adorable Virginia!" She cuddled into the pink hollow of her hand the pearl-framed ivory miniature of a beautiful, smiling girl which always hung from a thin gold chain around her neck. "They shouldn't have named me after you, should they, if they hadn't wanted me to be like you?"

"It was partly a question of money, dear," sighed the grand duchess. "If my mother hadn't left a legacy to my first daughter only on consideration that her own extremely American name of Virginia should be perpetuated."

"It was a delicious way of being patriotic. I'm glad she did it. I love being the only royal princess with American blood in my veins and an American name that may shake the world."

"Do you believe for an instant that if Grandmother Virginia were alive she would let Granddaughter Virginia marry Prince Henri de Touraine?"

"I don't see why not," said the grand duchess. "She wasn't too intrinsic to good health, with its blessings, must understand, quite clearly, that it involves the question of right living with all the term implies. With proper knowledge of what is best, each hour of recreation, of enjoyment, of contemplation and of effort may be made to contribute to living right. Then the use of medicines may be dispensed with to advantage, but under ordinary conditions in many instances a simple, wholesome remedy may be invaluable if taken at the proper time and the California Fig Syrup Co. holds that it is alike important to present the subject truthfully and to supply the one perfect laxative to those desiring it."

Consequently, the Company's Syrup of Figs and Elixir of Senna gives general satisfaction. To get its beneficial effects buy the genuine, manufactured by the California Fig Syrup Co. only, and for sale by all leading druggists.

marry an English duke and startle London as the first American duchess. Heavens, the things she used to do if one could believe half the wild stories my father's sister told me in warning! And as for my father, though a most charming man, of course he could not—er—have been called precisely estimable, while Prince Henri certainly is, and an exceedingly good match even for you—in present circumstances."

"Call him a match if you like, mother. He's undoubtedly a stick. But, no; he's not a match for me. There's only one on earth." And Virginia's eyes were lifted to the sky as if, instead of existing on earth, the person in her thoughts were placed as high as the sun that shone above her.

"I should have preferred an Englishman for you," said the grand duchess, "if only there were one of suitable rank free to—"

"I'm not thinking of an Englishman," murmured her daughter.

"If only you would think of poor Henri!"

"Never of him. You know, I said I would be dazed!"

"Don't repeat it! Oh, when you look at me in that way, how like you are to your grandmother's portrait at home—the one in white, painted just before her marriage! One might have known you would be extraordinary. That sort of thing invariably slips over a generation."

"The grand duchess laid down the theory as a law, and whether or no she were right, it was at least sure that she had inherited nothing of the first Virginia's daring originality—some of her radiant mother's beauty perhaps, watered down to gentle prettiness, for the hereditary Grand Duchess of Baumburg-Driple at fifty-one was still a daintily attractive woman, a middle-aged Dresden china lady, with a perfect complexion preserved by an almost perfect temper, surprised eyebrows, kindly dimples and a conventional upper lip."

She was not by birth "hereditary." Her lord and (very much) her master had been that and had selected her to help him reign over the hereditary grand duchy of Baumburg-Driple, not only because her father was an English duke with royal Stuart blood in his veins, but because her Virginia mother had brought much gold to the Northmoreland exchequer. Afterward he had freely spent such portion of that gold as had come to his coffers in trying to keep his little estates intact. But now it was all gone, and long ago he had died of grief and bitter disappointment. The hereditary grand duchy of Baumburg-Driple was ruled by a cousinly understanding of the German Emperor William II. The throne south of the marriage had been adopted as heir to his crown by the childless king of Hungary; the handsome and lamentably extravagant old Duke of Northmoreland was dead; his title and vast estates had passed to a distant and disagreeable relative, and the widowed grand duchess, with her one fair daughter, had lived for years in a pretty old house with a high walled garden at Hampton Court, lent by the generosity of the king and queen of England.

For a long moment the Dresden china lady thought in silence and something of sadness. Then she roused herself again and asked the one and only royal princess with an American name what in the way of a match, she really expected.

"What do I expect?" echoed Virginia. "Why, I wish for the moon—no, I mean the sun. But I don't expect to get it."

"Is that a way of saying you never intend to marry?"

"I'm afraid it amounts to that," admitted Virginia. "Since there is only one man in the world I would have for my husband."

"My dearest! A man you have let yourself learn to care for, a man beneath you? How terrible! But you see no one. I'm—"

"I've never seen this man. And—I'm not in love with him. That would be too foolish, because, instead of being beneath, he's far, far above me."

"Virginia, of whom can you be talking?"

ing? Or is this another joke?"

Virginia blushed a little and, instead of answering her mother's look of helpless appeal, stared at the row of tall hollyhocks that blazed along the ivy hidden garden wall. She did not speak for an instant, and then she said, with the dainty shyness of a child pined to a statement by uncomprehending elders: "It isn't a joke. Nonsense, maybe, yet not a joke. I've always thought of him—for so many years I've forgotten when it first began. He was so great, so—everything that appeals to me. How could I help thinking about him and putting him on a pedestal? I—there's no idea of marriage in my mind, of course, only—there's no other man possible after all the thoughts I've given him—no other man in the world."

"My dear, you must tell me his name."

"What! When I've described him—almost—do you still need to hear his name? Well, then, I—I'm not ashamed to tell. It's Leopold."

"Leopold. You're talking of the emperor of Rhaetia."

"As if it could have been any one else."

"And you have thought of him, you've cherished him, for years as an ideal? Why, you never spoke of him particularly before."

"That's because you never seriously wanted me to take a husband until this plain, dull French Henri proposed himself. My thoughts were my own. I wouldn't have told you only—see why."

"Of course, my precious child. How extremely interesting and—romantic!" Again the grand duchess leaped into silence, yet her expression did not suggest a stricken mind. She merely appeared astounded, with an astonishment that might turn into an emotion note agreeable.

Meanwhile it was left for Virginia to look vexed—vexed with herself. She wished that she had not betrayed her poor little foolish secret—so shadowy a secret that it was hardly worthy of the name. Yet it had been precious—precious since childhood, precious as the immediate jewel of her soul because it had been the jewel of her soul, and no one else had dreamed of its existence. Now she had shown it to other eyes, almost flaunted it. Never again could it be a joy to her.

In the little room, half study, half boudoir, which was her own there was a desk, locked in her absence, where souvenirs of the young emperor of Rhaetia had been accumulating for years. There were photographs which Virginia had contrived to buy secretly—portraits of Leopold from an early age up to the present, when he was shown as a tall, dark, cold-eyed, young man, firm, firm, firm, young man, of thirty. There were paragraphs cut from newspapers telling of his genius as a soldier, his prowess as a mountaineer and hunter of big game, with aromatic anecdotes of his haughty courage in time of danger, his impulsive charities, his well thought out schemes for the welfare of his subjects in every walk of life.

There were black and white copies of bold, clever pictures he had painted. There was martial music composed by him and plaintive folk songs adapted by him, which Virginia had tried softly to herself on her little piano when nobody was near. There were reports of speeches made by him since his accession to the throne, accounts of improvements in guns and an invention of a new explosive. There was a somewhat crude yet witty play which he had written and numerous other records of the accomplishments and achievements and even eccentricities which had built up the Princess Virginia's ideal of this celebrated young man, proclaimed emperor after the great revolution eight years ago.

"You are worthy to be an empress," Her mother's voice broke into Virginia's thoughts. She started and found herself under inspection by the grand duchess. At first she frowned; then she laughed, springing up on a quick impulse to turn earnest into jest and so perhaps escape further catechizing.

"Yes, would I not make an empress?" she echoed, stepping out from the shadow of her favorite elm into the noontide radiance of summer.

The sun poured over her hair as she stood with uplifted head and threaded it with a network of living gold, gleaming into the dark gray eyes rimmed with black lashes and turning them to jewels. Her fair skin was as flawless in the unsparring light as the petals of lilies, and her features, though a repetition of those which had made a Virginia girl famous long ago, were carried with royal perfection.

MAKING OF

A FELT HAT IS INTERESTING

How They Turn Fluffy Rabbit Fur into a Modern Derby.

It is an interesting matter to follow stage by stage the evolution of a little pile of soft, fluffy rabbit fur into the finished hat, whether a light colored crush or a raven black hard hat of the derby shape. The general idea about such a hat is that it is cut and made or molded out of a sheet of felt, so that amazement comes when one is shown bales and heaps of rabbit fur and is told that it is out of this that hats are made. Felt indeed is not so much a primary material, but felting is the process by which wool, fur or hair is matted together and formed into a close fabric. For hats rabbit fur is the material used. The first step in its treatment is the thorough cleansing of the close clipped fur in a machine, which winnows it of all dirt or foreign matter and leaves it in a soft, fluffy condition resembling the finest and lightest down.

Anything less resembling a hat it is impossible to imagine. But the marvelous ingenuity of the next process accomplishes an almost magical change. In the central box of a hopper-like machine a big copper cone revolves. From above the soft, fluffy fur is fed down in a snow, which clings like gray snow on the revolving cone, while jets of water and steam spray on the fur mat and plaster it into a complete covering. In a minute or two the cone is covered to the depth of one-eighth of an inch with this matted and saturated fur, which is now become felt. The machine is stopped, the cone is taken out, and the workman dexterously peels off the felt covering. Being built up on the cone, it is also cone shaped and looks like a gigantic sugar loaf hat. It is the embryo hat.

In this first state it is a soft, wet, felt cone, measuring 24 by 30 inches. Rolled up, it enters upon a series of processes and is shrunk together so that it measures 10½ by 14 inches.

The hat, now a brown-gray felt cone, like a clown's cap, is smoothed by being placed against rapidly revolving sandpaper. It is stiffened by being dipped in shellac, dyed black by immersion in a vat and then passes on to be shaped. Warm water gives the felt pliability, and the man quelling out or curving the apex of the cone draws and smooths it down to a wooden block of the exact shape and size the hat is required to be. As it dries it takes its destined shape and firmness as regards the crown, while the brim is still flat and untrimmed.

The body of the hat is now practically finished. Then comes the shaping of the brim, which is worked down and bent over a wooden frame of the exact curl and line of the ordained design. Each size and style of hat has its own frame, as it has also its iron mold, wood block, etc., and every alteration in a season's styles and shapes calls for an entirely new set of molds.

It was the consensus of opinion last evening that at least a hundred members would be necessary to insure the success of the venture. Land is to be purchased between the two towns, and beautiful buildings are to be erected. There will be bowling alleys, billiard rooms, an assembly hall, dancing pavilion and library. Tennis courts and golf links will also be laid out.

HERE IT IS

The following are a few good reasons, why you can positively save $100.00 in buying a piano at your home factory. You save the jobbers' profit, the dealers' profit, the freight, shipping case, and many other expenses incident to the piano trade.

You can call at the factory and leave your order for an art design case, of which this company makes a specialty for the home trade. There is no better way to become thoroughly acquainted with the essentials of piano construction than to pay a visit at the modern plant in your own city. They will be glad to explain to you the process and quality from the raw material to the finished product.

Their special cases in wax finish, crotchettian walnut and the new "art finish" Honduras mahogany are a triumph of the piano builders art.

Origin of "Red Tape."

The term "red tape" is used to denote excessive routine and formality in the management of official affairs. A servile adherence to precedent. Before the invention of the modern appliances of elastic bands, file holders and other means of securing papers all official documents were bound with red ribbons or tapes. The necessary delay caused by the undoing of tapes by slow moving government officials before business could be transacted came at length to stand as representative of all delays.

Danderine

and we can PROVE IT!

A lady from Minnesota writes: "As a result of using Danderine, my hair is close to five feet in length."

Beautiful Hair at Small Cost

HAIR troubles, like many other diseases, have been wrongly diagnosed and altogether misunderstood. The hair itself is not the thing to be treated, for the reason that it is simply a product of the scalp and wholly dependent upon its action. The scalp is the very soil in which the hair is produced, nurtured and grown, and it alone should receive the attention if results are to be expected. It would do no earthly good to treat the stem of a plant with a view of making it grow and become more beautiful—the soil in which the plant grows must be attended to. Therefore, the scalp in which the hair grows must receive the attention if you are to expect it to grow and become more beautiful.

Loss of hair is caused by the scalp drying up, or losing its supply of moisture or nutriment; when baldness occurs the scalp has simply lost all its nourishment, leaving nothing for the hair to feed upon (a plant or even a tree would die under similar conditions).

The natural thing to do in either case is to feed and replenish the soil or scalp as the case may be, and your crop will grow and multiply as nature intended it should.

Knowlton's Danderine has a most wonderful effect upon the hair glands and tissues of the scalp. It is the only remedy for the hair ever discovered which is similar to the natural hair foods or liquids of the scalp.

It penetrates the pores quickly and the hair soon shows the effects of its wonderfully exhilarating and life-giving action.

One 25-cent bottle is enough to convince you of its great worth as a hair growing and hair beautifying remedy—try it and see for yourself.

NOW at all druggists in three sizes, 25c, 50c and $1.00 per bottle.

TO FLIRT WITH LIBERTY

Curtiss Announces Flight Around Statue in New York Harbor.

New York, Sept. 23.—The first aviation event of the Hudson-Fulton celebration will be a flight from Governors Island, across the lower bay and around the statue of liberty. Glenn H. Curtiss, winner of the first international aviation contest, announced he would attempt to make this flight as soon as possible after he has assembled his machine.

Wilbur Wright, who has his machine almost in flying shape, met Curtiss for the first time since the latter returned from his European triumphs. The meeting, which took place in Wright's shed on Governors Island, was cordial. No ill feeling exists because of the suit which the Wright brothers have brought against the Herring-Curtiss company for alleged infringement of patents. Wright asked Curtiss if he had found the information given him by the Wrights before Curtiss sailed for France of any value to him. Mr. Curtiss said he had, and further pleasantries were exchanged.

A SQUARE MAYOR

Would any man in the mayor's chair have made any better record than has Gail Hamilton? We doubt it. Mr. Hamilton has made a clean, honest and conscientious official, who has striven to give every man and every class a fair and square deal. In every instance where malefactors have been brought before him, he has, after fair and searching investigation, given them a stiff sentence. It is true that several of these sentences, especially of infractions of the Rose law, have been reversed in the higher courts. So if there is censure to be handed out to Mayor Hamilton, let that censure also include the higher courts who have reversed his decisions on these points. Let the censure, if due to him, also be handed to the grand jury, who made honest efforts to find evidence—and found none they could tie to. It is the easiest thing in the world to find fault: that is why so many indulge in it. But the honest and fair man who will stop and ponder and think, will be convinced by his own honest convictions that Hamilton has made a strong mayor, a fair mayor, an honest mayor, and that he is entitled to a second term.

LET US GET IT.

The proposition of the National Brotherhood of Potters to erect a Home for their members who have grown gray in the service, is something that Coshocton should interest herself in at once. These great institutions of lodges and unions are a credit to any community and aside from all sentiment, they are of commercial value to a town. Coshocton is centrally located, a healthful and delightful climate, a good wholesome community in every way. The Potters will erect a magnificent building; how nicely it would grace one of the beautiful hillsides in close proximity to Coshocton.

The local theatre is to be congratulated upon the class of plays they are giving the public this season. They are high class to an unusual degree. But the theatre management deserves more than congratulations.

Taft in the west is showing them that he is weighty in more ways than one. He is a man of the people as well as for them. The other day at Chicago when they tried to usher him into a private box at the ball game, he insisted on getting "down where the fans were" and there he was happy as a lark, eating peanuts and "rooting" with the best of them.

Cook to appear in vaudeville? Well, he and Peary have furnished the country with a vaudeville stunt for the last several weeks.

Now that the board of review is to get an increase of fifty cents per day, it makes the job more interesting.

The First Wyoming Infantry of which Bert Wright of this place is a member has been mustered out at San Francisco and started for home. Private Wright is expected here the latter part of this week.

The New Century Club held the second meeting of this year at the home of Miss Lella Biggs on East Chestnut street Monday evening. They were delightfully entertained.

Miss Fannie Weaver returned to her home in this city Saturday after a two weeks visit with friends in Columbus.

Chief Doney arrested a young man on suspicion Monday afternoon and locked him in city hall.

Efforts are being made to have the Baltimore and Ohio road build a line through Coshocton.

An order has been issued at the Standard plant for night work in almost every department of the big factory. The company is rushed with orders.

Old-timers will be at the county fair again.

No, it isn't the Pittsburg National league team that is coming here Saturday. Just one of their understudies.

Work will begin soon on F. K. Wood's new house on Walnut-st., just back of his residence at the corner of Walnut and Third-sts.

NEW LAW WILL FORBID CHECKS UNDER A DOLLAR

A new federal law that goes into effect the first of 1910 will make it unlawful for anyone to draw a check for any sum under one dollar, punishable by a severe fine, not to exceed $500. This is to prevent small amounts thus being used instead of currency. A storm of protest is being raised by merchants all over the country, particularly mail order houses a large amount of whose business comes in sums under one dollar. It is suspected that the idea is to compel people to use post office or express orders instead of their own personal checks. Such a law ought not stand a day.

LICKING COUNTY'S FAMOUS REGIMENT

(Newark American)

The thirty-first annual reunion of the 76th Regiment of Ohio Volunteer Infantry is on today in the Memorial auditorium building.

It was the one home regiment in Licking county and none in the war saw any more prolonged or harder service. It was recruited in and about this city in Camp Sherman from August to October 1861, and on February 6, 1862, was mustered in the service under Colonel Charles R. Woods and Lieutenant Colonel William B. Woods with Major Willard Warner.

The regiment started at once to the front and five days later received their baptism of fire under the walls of Fort Donelson. Though probably the 76th was the youngest regiment in point of service that supported Grant in that historic battle it did so with credit and suffered badly. Life from that time on till August 1864, when the regiment was mustered out was strenuous.

The officers of the 76th regiment are elected for life and are as follows:

President, Col. Chas. H. Kibler
Vice president, David Davis
Secretary, Johnston Haughey
Treasurer, Captain John Hiser
Chaplain, Capt. J. M. Scott
Assistant, M. R. Scott.

Vesuvius

Vesuvius cut but a small figure in history till the latter half of the first century of the Christian era. In 73 B. C. its crater served as a camp of refuge to a band of gladiators. In 63 A. D. the serenity was broken by a violent grumbling that manifested itself in a severe earthquake that shook up the surrounding region. For sixteen years the souteranean rumblings continued at intervals, and in the year 79 A. D. came the great catastrophe in which Herculaneum and Pompeii were overwhelmed. In 1631 there was another terrible explosion, and since that time Vesuvius has seldom been at rest for many years together.—Exchange.

A Culinary Tragedy.

"What's the matter, dear?" asked Mr. Justus as he came into the house and found his wife crying as if her heart would break.

"I am so discouraged," she sobbed. "What has bothered my little wife?" "I worked all the afternoon making custards, because I knew you were so fond of them, and—and—" Here she began weeping hysterically again. "And what, darling?" "And they turned out to be sponge cakes."

The Cleverest.

Willy—You see, it was this way. They were all three so dead in love with her and all so eligible that to settle the matter she agreed to marry the one who should guess the nearest to her age. Arthur—And did she? Willy—I don't know. I know that she married the one who guessed the lowest.

long bench. When they left for the East End the bag was entirely forgotten.

The couple left the station and boarded an East Liberty express car. Officer Dunlap who had been keeping his eye on a number of foreigners who were bound for the old country noticed two of them edging up to the seat just vacated by the man and woman. He walked over to see what it was that attracted the foreigners and observed the handbag lying on the bench. Just as one of them reached for it Officer Dunlap closed in and snatched the bag from his hands. Just then Thompson returned and the bag was turned over to him.

Hints For The Housewife

The Age's Daily Recipe

COCOANUT PIE—Line a pie plate with good pastry. Fill with the following mixture. Mix together two heaping tablespoonfuls of cornstarch with three quarters of a cup of sugar then add two cupfuls of milk, two beaten eggs, one cupful of desiccated coconut, a pinch of salt, one heaping tablespoonful of butter half a teaspoonful of almond extract, the grated rind and strained juice of one lemon Bake in a moderate oven till set.

There is more speedy relief from hot wet cloths than the dry heat from a hot-water bottle, but it is a tedious task to keep cloths hot. If you wring a soft cloth out of warm water and place it over a hot water bag filled with hot water it will cause a streaming cloth, which gives almost instant relief to severe attacks of earache, toothache or neuralgia. It is quite an improvement over the dry heat.

There is need both of less talk of nerves and less talk for them. What is more boring than incessant discussion of the subject of one's poor nerves? asks a writer. Nothing has been more overworked and it is time that it should be tabooed as a topic of conversation.

A good powder is needed to free the teeth from any adhering particles. Dental floss or a common thin rubber band can be used to remove particles from between the teeth.

Baking soda will clean gold teeth and remove the tartar from natural ones. Use peroxide sparingly, as the acid causes a chemical action which leaves a most unpleasant taste in the mouth.

After having done an unusually hard day's work or undergone some unaccustomed strain, such as is likely to leave the muscles sore and stiff mix fifteen drops of tincture of arnica thoroughly in one half-glass of water and take one teaspoonful of the mixture every hour until relieved. This will give much quicker relief than when applied externally. It is also one of the best remedies to promote absorption, remove soreness and prevent inflammation in any wound or bruise on the soft parts of the body.

A wart is essentially an outgrowth of the scarf skin. It may be brought about by friction. Hence it may be found on the quite healthy skin of a healthy person, just as a corn may be found. But warts come numerous, so proving that there must be some internal cause. Wart crops are specially apt to appear between early childhood and the 16th year. They are found most usually in children of poor physique. They have been known to make sudden appearance when the child has fallen into poor health and to go away when the health has improved. Small doses of calomel or magnesia in water taken daily during many weeks or months have been found effectual in getting rid of these warts.

Explorer Cook Repeats Story For New York Reporters.

REPLIES TO MANY QUESTIONS

Refuses to Describe in Detail Any One Particular Observation, Saying All Will Be Described in Document to Be Forwarded to University of Copenhagen—Explains Alleged Discrepancies in Stories—Says Peary Incident Is Closed.

New York, Sept. 23.—After spending most of the day in the seclusion of his apartment at the Waldorf-Astoria, Dr. Frederick A. Cook came out of his retirement long enough to submit to a rigorous cross-examination at hands of 40 newspaper representatives, including several from foreign papers, and provided at least that he was not afraid to meet the public. Incidentally the city of New York officially recognized his achievement when the board of aldermen passed a resolution commemorating the discovery and providing for a public welcome at the city hall. The date of the reception will be announced later.

MEN AND WOMEN WANTED

The United States Government gives Railway Mail Clerks $800 a year to start, and increase to $1200.

Uncle Sam will hold an examination for Postal Clerks and Letter Carriers in Coshocton in November; for other positions on different dates. It is estimated that 50,000 appointments will be made this year. The Government wants people over 18 years to take the examination; will pay them well and give them an annual vacation with full pay. The Bureau of Instructions, Rochester, N. Y., with its thorough knowledge of all the requirements can fit anyone in a few weeks to pass. A Government Position means employment for life. Prepare now for the examination. Any reader of The Age can get full information by writing the Bureau of Instructions, 142 Hamlin Building, Rochester, N. Y.

The material points of Dr. Cook's answers did not differ in a great degree from his original recital. Some slight details were cleared up, however, which throw light on the way in which the polar dash was effected. As the questions asked were put by laymen, they did not go deeply into the scientific aspect of the expedition, but Dr. Cook was ready to answer anything pertinent to the issue.

The most interesting phase of the interview was reached when Dr. Cook was asked if he could object to showing his diary. He immediately consented, and after referring to his notes returned with a small, square notebook which he showed freely to all. It was a thin book containing 170 pages, each of which was filled with 20 or 30 lines of printed writing in the most minute characters. The book, he said, contained considerably more than 100,000 words, while he has besides other books embracing his observations and other data. He did not show them, however.

Answers All Alike.

As question after question was asked, whether it was of a trivial nature or of a more serious trend, Dr. Cook answered in a low voice without hesitancy, as though in full possession of all his facts.

The interviewers were rather severe in regard to details, but nothing indicated that the polar traveler's memory was at fault even in the most minute particulars. Sometimes when a petty question indicated ignorance he smiled with good-humored sympathy at the lack of technical knowledge displayed. Occasionally, when a question was long and complicated, he asked for its repetition.

Not once did he refuse to reply, except when the name of Commander Peary was broached. Even then he said that he had always and did now consider Peary as his friend, but controversial subjects in connection with his rival he avoided entirely, saying that they could wait. Throughout the interview he exhibited the utmost patience.

When requested to say what had occurred at his meeting with Harry Whitney, the New Haven sportsman, he said he preferred to let Whitney tell his own story, as Whitney was quite unbiased. His reasons in imposing secrecy on Whitney, on Pritchard, Commander Peary's cabin boy, and the Eskimos, were prompted by his desire to be the first to tell the world of his discovery. He had done the work, he said, and was entitled to relate how it had been carried out. Some of the most important questions put to Dr. Cook during the interview and his replies thereto follow:

Relations With Peary. Q.—Did anything ever occur in the life of yourself and Mr. Peary that would create an enmity or bitterness between you? A.—No, nothing whatever that I know of.

Q.—Do you look upon Commander Peary as a friend or as an enemy? A.—I must say I do not know. I have treated Mr. Peary as a friend and until I know more about the situation I shall continue to do the same.

Q.—Did you ever say anything in Etah that indicated that you feared for your life if he got there? A.—No. Q.—Would you be willing to meet Peary in a debate when he gets here? A.—As far as I am concerned the Peary incident is closed. Mr. Peary is not the dictator of my affairs, and I do not care to say anything further about him.

Q.—Will you describe in detail any single observation taken by you at the north pole, with the exact figures of the results and the corrections applied? A.—Not at this present moment. We will describe every one of them in detail when they go to the University of Copenhagen. They will go there within two months. The entire records will be delivered to the university, and after that they will go to everybody that wants to examine them.

Q.—In your original narrative as published in the New York Herald you said: "The night of April 7 was made notable by the swinging of the sun at midnight over the northern ice. Our observations on April 6 placed the camp in latitude 86° 35' longitude 94° 2'." The astronomer says that in the latitude you mention the midnight sun would have been visible on April 1, and that if you fully saw it for the first time on April 7, you must have been 500 miles from the pole instead of 224 as you supposed. Therefore to have reached the pole on April 21, you would have had to travel 20 miles daily. What is your explanation of the apparent discrepancy? A.—In the first place that indicates the point I have taken; that nobody can pronounce judgment of a matter of this kind until they get the complete records. The northern horizon at midnight has been so obscure that we could not tell whether the sun was below the horizon or above it. We were not making observations at midnight. Therefore this statement is based upon the fact that we have said that it was possible to see the sun at midnight on that day. I have not looked through the Herald's story as it has been written out in full. My impression is that we were absolutely unable to see the sun the midnight before that. The horizon was obscured.

It was announced that Thursday, Sept. 20 has been selected as the date of the banquet of the Danish societies of Greater New York in Dr. Cook's honor. The banquet of the Arctic club of America will be held at the Waldorf tonight.

Peary Remains Silent.

Tuoro, N. S., Sept. 23.—Commander Robert E. Peary had no further statements to make regarding the polar controversy, and while traveling westward to his home in Eagle Bay from Sydney spent the time in going over his correspondence.

CURED TO STAY CURED

How a Coshocton Citizen Found Complete Freedom From Kidney Troubles

If you suffer from backache—From urinary disorders—From any disease of the kidneys. Be cured to stay cured.

Doan's Kidney Pills make lasting cures.

Coshocton people testify. Here's one case of it: John Schaffer, 32 N. Fifth-st., Coshocton, O., says: "I suffered intensely from pains across my kidneys and my back was so lame that I could hardly move about. The kidney secretions passed too frequently and broke my rest at night. At length Doan's Kidney Pills were recommended to me and I procured a supply at Siegrist & Williams' drug store. By the time I had used two boxes I was greatly relieved and though I still occasionally have a slight twinge in my back, my kidneys are perfectly normal. I am continuing to take Doan's Kidney Pills, feeling certain that they will cure me."

Mr. Schaffer gave the above testimonial in August 1906 and when interviewed on May 8, 1909, he said: "Doan's Kidney Pills cured me of kidney complaint three years ago and my kidneys have bothered me very little since. I gladly recommend this excellent remedy."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-McIlburn Co., Buffalo, New York, Sole agents for the United States.

PLEASANT HILL

PLEASANT HILL, Sept. 23.—Relatives and friends of Grandma McCoy kindly remembered her on her birthday by sending a shower of 175 post cards.

Mr. and Mrs. Nicholas Fortune and Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Turner spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. John Richcreek.

The home of Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Johnston was the scene of gay festivities Monday evening when about 70 relatives and friends gathered there to celebrate their wedding anniversary. The guests were amusingly surprised when they rushed into the house and no one to be found. All searched eagerly and at last located the host and hostess in the wood shed. They heard the guests coming and suspicioned a surprise so to give them some fun, they escaped by the back door to hide. Refreshments were served and music was furnished by Frank Johnston's graphophone and other vocal and instrumental music. The guest list included Mr. and Mrs. D. W. Johnson, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Norris Jr. and Mrs. Alvin Marshall, Mr. and Mrs. Scott Wright, Mr. and Mrs. James Miller, Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Whitaker, Mr. and Mrs. John Johnston, Jr., and Mrs. Mart Reed, Mr. and Mrs. Amel Cullison, Mr. and Mrs. Thos. HOW JONES WON SUCCESS

Jones was an honest man and faithfully did his work, no matter how hard he had to do; and he had his work was painting, and he was in colors new, he'd buy the very best of paint, and found it paid him, too. His fame as a good workman has spread throughout the land, and people will consult him before their house is planned, and the first thing he will tell them, and it's really true I guess, is that Aurora Paint is what helped him win success. Aurora Paint is an honest lead and oil paint. Manufactured by The Maricopa Paint & Color Co., Marietta, Ohio. Sold by Fleming & Gray, Coshocton, Ohio.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surface of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.

CATACLYSM IS PREDICTED

New England Religious Fanatics Prepare For End of World.

Providence, R. I., Sept. 23.—True to their belief that a great upheaval is about to occur, whereby the top crust of the earth will peel off, carrying the wicked to destruction and leaving the "elect" in undisputed possession of the world, several Rhode Island families belonging to the sect known as the Latter Reign of the apostolic church have gone to Duxbury, Mass., an appointed place, to wait for the cataclysm. The time set for the triumph of the faithful is tomorrow at 10 a. m. Leaders of the sect from Rhode Island, Maine and elsewhere are now at Duxbury, and it is said many of them have disposed of all their worldly goods and abandoned their occupations.

100 New Fall Suits

BY EXPRESS

This seems like a large number of suits but considering our business in this department so far, they should not last long at the special price that we have them marked. You cannot better the styles or beat the prices in Coshocton.

Others may quote the same prices but not on the same suits elsewhere you will pay at least 10 per cent. more than our price for suits like ours. But come and see for yourself; use your own good judgment; seeing is a fair test. Besides these suits will stand the test of wear. If you buy one of our suits you'll find it retains the shape and newness and wears until you must admit it has proven good. Here are a few quotations from our suit department, with comparison prove our claims.

$10.50 an all-wool suit, lined with striped material, trimmed with buttons, pleated skirt, colors, navy, green, black and gray.

At $15 fine quality, all-wool, striped panama coat, 42 in. long, lined with satin, skirts in new plaited effects, colors black, navy, green and smoke

At $25—In our magnificent display at $25 there is not a suit but represents special value, style, fabric and finish indicate a much higher price; coats are 40 and 45 in. long, lined with very best guaranteed satin.

At $32.50—You will be interested in our showing of suits at $32.50. Some of them are worth at least $45, but by a special purchase we have a number of styles in Chiffon, Broadcloths and Satin Prunella's at a bargain.

Other suits at $16.50, $17.50, $18, $22.50, $27.50 and $40.

FINE PEARS ARE ON DISPLAY

HE STRUCK THE RIGHT THING

MANY OF THIS LOCALITY CONTINUE TO PRAISE IT.

About every three months the Root Juice Medicine Company, of Fort Wayne, Ind., has to double its capacity in the manufacture of the wonderful Root Juice that has made so many remarkable cures throughout the country. We are told that the company is deluged with letters from the afflicted of every part of the United States. Hundreds and hundreds of people write to the company for information, and many of them send money through the mail, as there is no agency in their locality. Since C. E. Anderson got the agency at this point hundreds of people have bought the remedy, and as the Root Juice business here is not above the average the inventor of the remedy is certainly being rewarded. But such should be the case, as the medicine gives wonderful satisfaction and seems to permanently cure some of the most stubborn stomach liver and kidney troubles, rheumatism and nervous weakness. Many people living at this point and vicinity, who we know, have called at the drug store to express their thanks for the great good Root Juice has done for them. Among the many whom Root Juice has cured was Joseph Simpson. He said: "I had a complication of stomach, liver and kidney troubles, of long standing. I suffered very much and used many different medicines without being benefited, but I tell you, I struck the right thing when I got Root Juice, as three bottles of the great medicine has entirely cured me." Hardly a day passes without some one calling at the drug store to praise the medicine.

GYPSIES HAVE COLOSSAL AMOUNT OF PURE GALL

The gypsies who have been hanging around town are the most impudent bunch that has struck Coshocton in many days. Down in the west end of town the other night a little girl was walking along Walnut-st., eating a bunch of grapes. A diminutive Roman Rye dashed up behind her, grabbed the grapes and ran. Another child of the same neighborhood was walking to school, wearing a bright ribbon in her hair. A gypsy child slipped up behind her, pulled the ribbon from her hair and ran away with it. Chief Johnston says that the next tribe that comes to town won't come.

ANDREW WEISNER AN ADMIRER OF GOV. JOHNSON

The Age is in receipt of copies of Minneapolis papers telling of the death of Gov. Johnston, sent by Andrew Weisner, formerly of this city but now head of the Weisner Co. of Minneapolis and a firm admirer of the late governor. Mr. Weisner was formerly president of the Coshocton council.

BRIDGE ABOVE ROSCOE WILL BE READY FOR FAIR

R. N. Kirk and his men have finished the bridge near Lee's mill north of Roscoe. The bridge is 31.5 feet wide and forty feet long. Seven thousand pounds of steel reinforce the concrete. The bridge is three feet higher than the old bridge, making the descent from the hill less abrupt. The bridge will not be opened for traffic until the first day of the fair, giving the concrete time to set properly.

TARDY
School teachers say that there are more cases of tardiness on Monday morning than any other morning in the week. The reason is plainly evident. As the mother is busy washing and has not time to attend to anything else, the children are neglected. Start earlier and use rub-a-lac and have the children there by school time. Rub-a-lac is so cheap you should not do without it. Ask your grocer for it and try it.

Isle of Spice.
The Isle of Spice is booked to appear at the Sixth-St. theatre next Thursday evening, Sept. 30. The Chicago Stock Co. will be here fair week and Polly of the Circus a few weeks later.

Reese Bros. Africananders.
Concerning the attraction for the remainder of this week at the Sixth-St. theatre, the Guernsey Times says of their appearance in Cambridge:

On Monday night of the Reese Bros. Africanander Co. at the Colonial theatre after many requests had been made to Manager Hammond, of the theatre, he was fortunately able to secure the big comic show that has so well pleased the two nights previous to stay over for one more performance.

Every song in the first part will be changed. The first part will be closed with a side-splitting burlesque on Gilmore's big band, one big scream from start to finish.

The Prince Chap
Most things, plays included, are the best the first time they are done, or, in this case, seem. But the production of "The Prince Chap," at the Sixth-St. Theatre Wednesday evening by Chas. Emerson Cook's Co., was great, and equally as good as when played by the Belasco company several years ago, with Cyril Scott in the title role. Elliott Dexter portrayed the character of the Prince Chap, a poor American artist living in London, in a delightful manner. The Pullman children are as attractive as ever, and are perfect in their parts. Miss Norma Mitchell as the irrepressible Puckers, the maid of all work, could not have been improved upon, and her make up was in deed clever. The entire company was strong, and the play was quite the best in Coshocton this season.

To relieve constipation, clean out the bowels, tone and strengthen the digestive organs, put them in a natural condition with Hollister's Rocky Mountain Tea, the most reliable tonic for thirty years. 25 cents. Tea or Tablets.

DOCTOR ADVISED OPERATION

Cured by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Another Operation Avoided.
Chicago, Ill.—"I want women to know what that wonderful medicine, Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, has done for me. Two of the best doctors in Chicago said I would die if I did not have an operation, and I never thought of seeing a well day again. I had a small tumor and female troubles so that I suffered day and night. A friend recommended Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and it made me a well woman."
—MRS. ALVINA SPERLING, 11 Langdon St., Chicago, Ill.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made from roots and herbs, has proved to be the most successful remedy for curing the worst forms of female ills, including displacements, inflammation, fibroid tumors, irregularities, periodic pains, backache, bearing-down feeling, flatulency, indigestion, and nervous prostration. It costs but a trifle to try it, and the result has been worth millions to many suffering women.

Millions of Stomaches Refuse to do Their Work Properly

All over this broad land millions of stomach owners are being held in humiliating subjection just because they are so stubborn that they will not accept a fair, square and broad minded offer.

Life is short for all of us; it will be shorter for those who let their stomachs go from bad to worse.

C. E. Anderson has a famous prescription called Mi-o-na and he believes so thoroughly in its remarkable curative power that he says to every owner of a distressed stomach that he will guarantee Mi-o-na tablets to cure acute or chronic indigestion and all stomach ailments or money back, and the price is only 9 cents a box.

And still there are stubborn people right in Coshocton who won't accept this offer but continue to suffer from gas on stomach, belching of sour food stomach pains, foul breath, dizziness, biliousness and headaches just because—that's all, there is not other reason.

Mi-o-na tablets stop dyspeptic agony in five minutes; they cure obstinate cases of indigestion and turn the old stomach into a new one in a few weeks—or money back.
